WALKER TO NAME CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT CENTER AFTER JOHN P. HAYES

MILWAUKEE – County Executive Scott Walker will host a dedication ceremony today naming the Department of Child Support Enforcement (CSE) after the late Attorney John P. Hayes. Members of the Hayes family will attend the dedication along with former associates from the courthouse and community. Walker will unveil a plaque to be displayed outside the CSE offices which will formally be named the John P. Hayes Center.

Hayes was the Director of the Milwaukee County Department of Child Support Enforcement from March 1994 to November 2006. He was recognized locally and nationally for his strong leadership and advocacy for those less fortunate in the community. A proud and distinguished graduate of the Marquette College of Business and the Marquette University Law School, Hayes also served in the United States Army, coached youth sports, and was involved with numerous charitable organizations.

His impact extended beyond the department and included service on the Milwaukee County Ethics Board, the Wauwatosa Civil Service Commission, the State Department of Workforce Development's Policy Advisory Committee, and as president of the Wisconsin Child Support Enforcement Association.

To honor his legacy, the office of Child Support Enforcement will forever be named the John P. Hayes Center, in memory of his long service on behalf of Milwaukee County families.
